Special Congress Issue

n°6 - May/mai 2018

Editorial

The topic of the forthcoming Congress, In a State of Transference – Wild, Political, Psychoanalytical, has set to work a large number of cartels throughout the wide NLS territory – cartels Towards the Congress, or Flash-Cartels relying on the function of haste.

This issue displays an array of the cartels' productions that we received, and they give us a flavor of the Congress event to come.

Nelson Feldman (Geneva) addresses the issue of wild transference, from an analysand's testimony. His paper, Les dérives du transfert: "Sauver Masud Khan", shows the effects on the cure of a transference that is acted upon, without being elaborated or interpreted.

Zully Flomenbaum (Jerusalem) worked in a cartel on a question that emerged during supervision regarding love's craftiness in the transference. How to deal with this dimension of deception, between the imaginary facet of transference love and the real aspect of the analyst's presence?

Veroniki Patia (Thessaloniki), under the title Transference and Object a, brings up the topic of psychoanalytic transference from Plato's Symposium and the distinction made between erastes and éroménos, the lover and the loved one, which led Lacan to define love as a substitution of the éroménos by the erastès function.

Malka Shein (Tel Aviv), in Two Comments on a Cartel, talks about a cartel born in a Clinical Section, which thereafter got detached from it, so as to be orientated towards the School. This allowed a passage from transference-work to work-transference.

Sophie Steininger (Vienna) refers to the legal formula, By virtue of the authority invested in me for testifying about her early stages as an analyst in an institution. But it is "the grace of the analysand" (Lacan) which sets her up as subject supposed to know, allowing the transference's initiation.

Markus Zöchmeister (Vienna) wonders, Que sais-je de mon transfert, en tant qu'analysant ? He puts forward that transference spreads out starting from two impossibilities of knowing, on the side of both analysand and analyst.

Enjoy your reading and see you soon in Paris!
